Senator Quay, after looking over the field, became convinced, it is said, that the fight for the Republican cause was already lost, and as he would not have his name connected with a failure he gave notice that he would return to Philadelphia. That report, brought the cabinet officials here post haste.

The conference lasted for hours, and it is said that Senator Quay told the President's representatives that he would take Mr. Harrison's request under advisement.

NOW CARRIED TO THE GRAVE.

Mrs. Harrison's Body Arrives at Indianapolis To-Day.

The Special on Schedule Time—Thousands Out to Meet It.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—President Harrison and the grief-stricken members of his family arrived here this morning in their special train at 9 o'clock, promptly on schedule time.

They were greeted by thousands of sympathetic friends.

A delay of half an hour in removing Mrs. Harrison's body from the train was caused by transferring from the funeral car the wealth of floral tributes.

Everything being at last in readiness, the casket was lifted and slowly and reverently borne out by John B. Egan, the President's law partner; Judge Woods, E. B. Martin, Gen. L. W. Wallace, Dr. Allen and T. L. Haughey.

In front of the rail-bearers were Judge Niblack and W. B. Peaback, and in the rear Moses G. Metcalf and John H. Elder, and following them the sorrowing relatives and the President's official family.

The cortege proceeded directly to the church, where there was a beautiful display of floral tributes mingled with heavy loads of mourning crepe.

When the procession arrived at the church a crowd of 5,000 people thronged the sidewalks and pushed into the streets.

The church services were characterized by the greatest simplicity.

IRVING BANK SAFE.

Burkhalter & Co. Secured the Bank and Director Matilage.

Eighteen Truckloads of Goods and Book Accounts Were Pledged.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The Irving National Bank, which was secured against loss, and that this was the Irving National Bank, of which Asst. Cashier Charles L. Fancher is President.

It was also disclosed that on the night preceding the failure a large amount of goods had been removed from the store of Burkhalter & Co., in Hudson street, to one of J. Dean & Co.'s storage warehouses in Greenwich street.

This has been since admitted by both members of the defunct firm, Charles and John H. Burkhalter, who say, however, that only eighteen truckloads of merchandise were removed from their store, and that this was to secure a director of the Irving National Bank, who loaned them $5,000 at the last moment in the hope that this sum would enable them to tide over their difficulties.

The fact that these goods had not been paid for, judging from the number of receipt slips which have since been instituted, gives a still more suspicious look to the transaction in the opinion of the business community.

Assignee Charles L. Fancher this morning said in a report to his directors:

"It is true, or at least I am so informed, that a certain amount of goods were removed from the store of Burkhalter & Co. Oct. 18."

"Mr. Burkhalter asked me for a loan of $5,000. I told him that I could not accommodate him, because we always held his property as a lien for the money he owed us."

"I do not know, however, as to whether he was anxious to get the money, and went to the store of Burkhalter & Co. to get it."

"A small delegation, representing the officials of the Irving National Bank, came to the store of Burkhalter & Co. and asked me to place with the other floral decorations in the store containing the remains of Mrs. Harrison."

"The remains were made by Col. Luther Hall, the prison doctor, and a United States prisoner from Florida. In the center of the store the message from the officials to the officials of the Irving National Bank, inscribed by Chaplain Ducler."
